NORTH STATE CAPITAL NEWS

Supreme Court Opinions Delivered---Governor Making Many Educational Addresses

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, April 19.—The Supreme court delivered opinions in eleven appeals on this weekly delivery day and announced the list in the early afternoon instead of waiting until five o'clock, the usual hour. The list follows:

Gregg vs. Wilmington and Woolvin, from New Hanover county, in def. city's appeal, new trial; in Woolvin's appeal, no error.

Exchange Bank of Baltimore vs. Rook, Anson; reversed.

State vs. Eugene Webb, Durham; appeal dismissed.

Houston vs. Durham Traction Co, Durham, petition to rehear dismissed, former ruling sustained.

McLellan vs. North Carolina Railroad, Durham; no error.

Denny vs. Burlington, Alamance; no error.

Leonard vs. Southern Power Co., Davidson; affirmed.

Hockaday vs. Lawrence, Granville; affirmed.

McKinney vs. North Carolina Railroad, Guilford; affirmed.

Lee & Godwin vs. Shawnee Fire Insurance Co., Harnett, modified and affirmed with the costs against the appellant.

Lee & Godwin vs. New Hampshire Insurance Co., plaintiff's appeal from Harnett, modified and affirmed with costs against the appellant.

A ruling by the Corporation Commission in the case for additional train service between Wilmington and Goldsboro through extending the Norfolk-Goldsboro train run to Wilmington or through establishing a local Wilmington-Goldsboro shoo-fly, was scheduled for today but was not announced. The statement was made at the office of the commission that the matter has been settled but that the formal ruling and accompanying statement are not yet ready to be given to the newspapers. Nor is there any intimation as to what disposition has been made of the case.

Matters pertaining to the North Carolina Railroad Co. as leased the Southern have been engaging the attention of Governor Kitchin and the State's representatives in the management of this valuable property, controlled by the State for several days past. President Benehan Cameron, Secretary-Treasurer A. H. Eller, R. F. McNinch, Charlotte, and others have held conferences in the executive office the past few days. There is no official statement save that routine matters are involved.

There is much gratification in Raleigh at the announcement of the promotion of Robert L. Gray, native of Raleigh, and gifted newspaper writer, to the position of chief editorial writer for The Washington (D. C.) Times. He is the son of R. T. Gray, prominent lawyer here. Mrs. Gray is a daughter of the late Associate Justice McRae, of the North Carolina Supreme Court and dean of the University of North Carolina law school.

Prominent Baptists here including Editor Hight C. Moore, of the Biblical Recorder, have gone to Statesville for the annual convention of the North Carolina Baptist Young People's Union in session there this week.

Two charters were issued today. The North East River Lumber Co., New Bern, capital $50,000 by Lary I. Moore, William Dunn, Jr., and C. W. Pittit. And the North Carolina Mercantile Co., Asheville, capital $50,000, by J. E. Craddock and others.

It is believed by a number of the brick manufacturers who are in touch with the Corporation Commission in the matter of the revision of the freight rates on brick the state over that the pending investigation will bring about a readjustment largely on the basis of the South Carolina rates, which are much lower than the present North Carolina rates. In opposing this the railroad companies are explaining that they are now preparing to petition the Corporation Commission of South Carolina for an increase in the rates in that state on the ground that they are cut too low for any profit to the carriers. The South Carolina rate is based on 60 cents for five miles whereas the basis of the present North Carolina rates is 90 cents for five miles.

The paving of the portions of Fayetteville street between the double tracks of the street railway from Capital Square to Davie street to conform with the new regular asphalt paving is nearing completion and will be finished this week. The people of the city are delighted with the manner in which this asphalt and vitrified brick paving is showing up. Within the past year the city has invested upwards of $60,000 in the asphalt paving and the street car company has expended considerable amount in its part of the paving with brick between its tracks on the twelve blocks of streets paved in this way.

Governor Kitchin went today to Liberty, Randolph county to deliver an address in connection with the closing of the schools there. The governor is filling quite a number of engagements of this kind now and the calls for such service are increasing steadily with the advance of the hight of the school commencement season.

The Phoenix Construction Company is opening up offices here in preparation for taking up the work of their contract for the construction of the transmission lines from Blewitt Falls Power plant on the Pee Dee River, Richmond county, to this city and these by branch lines to towns throughout this section including Wake Forest, Louisburg, Henderson, Oxford, to the north and as far east as Goldsboro. Then there is to be the construction of the big transforming plant just west of the city. President Charles E. Johnson of the Carolina Light and Power Co., the controlling corporation for prosecuting the enterprise, says no time is to be lost in the completion of the Blewitt Falls plant, the installation of the transmission lines and the equipment of the transforming plant here, the purpose being to have this vast horsepower of electric current available at just as early as possible for commercial and other purposes.

ELECTION LAW IN NEW JERSEY

Geran Bill, Opposed by Politicians, Fought to Victory by Governor Wilson Yesterday.

By Publishers' Press.

Trenton, N. J., April 19.—Governor Wilson won a hard fought victory today when the General Assembly finally passed the law providing for radical reform in election methods in New Jersey. The bill is known as the Geran election law. This measure had been pending in the New Jersey legislature for several weeks and was bitterly opposed by the machine politicians. The machine organization of the Democrats brought all possible pressure to bear to defeat the bill. Governor Wilson heartily favored the measure and used all of his influence to have it adopted. The passage of the bill is a decisive victory for the governor.

Survivor of Seminole War Dead.

By Publishers' Press.

Oswego, N. Y., April 19.—John W. Roche, the oldest known survivor of the Seminole war, is dead here at the age of 90 years. He helped to bury the victims of the Dade massacre in 1839.

New York Senate Ratifies Income Tax.

By Publishers' Press.

Albany, N. Y., April 19.—After a long debate the New York Senate today passed the Wagner resolution ratifying the proposed federal income tax amendment. The vote on the measure was 34 to 16.

Separate Church and State In Portugal.

By Publishers' Press.

Lisbon, Portugal, April 19.—A decree separating the church and state will be promulgated Friday or Saturday. The State concedes full liberty of conscience, the Catholic creed ceasing to be the state religion.

PARIS

Retains the Position of Third Largest City in World---Population 2,846,986

By Publishers' Press.

Paris, France, April 19.—Paris retains the position of the third largest city in the world, according to a census which has just been completed and which shows that the population of the capital of France is 2,846,986.

Poultry Association Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Guilford Poultry Association will be held Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the Southern Life & Trust building.

OGDEN SPEAKS TO SOUTHERN EDUCATORS IN JACKSONVILLE

By Publishers' Press.

Jacksonville, Fla., April 19.—Robert C. Ogden, of New York, president of the Conference of Education in the South, delivered an instructive address at tonight's session of the conference, which began a three days session here today. Dr. Ogden spoke of rural co-operation as did Count Moltake, of Denmark, and several prominent Southern educators. There are over three hundred delegates in attendance, representing every part of the South.

PRESBYTERY OF ORANGE IN SESSION IN DURHAM

Durham, April 19.—The Orange Presbytery, which is holding its annual meeting at the Durham First Presbyterian church, held its first session Tuesday evening, at which time the delegates were enrolled and the officers were elected. The ministers and laymen enrolled number about fifty.

At the session Tuesday evening Rev. R. M. Williams, of Greensboro, was elected moderator, and Rev. J. W. Goodman, of Greensboro, and A. T. Whitsett, of Greensboro, were elected temporary clerks. A strong sermon was preached by Rev. J. A. Gilmer, of Mt. Airy, the retiring moderator.

The minutes of the last meeting of the presbytery were read and excuses for absences were heard, after which the Presbytery adjourned to meet this morning.

At the session this morning committees to take care of the various matters coming before the Presbytery for action were appointed. A number of committee communications to the Presbytery were read and referred to the proper committees for action. The sermon this morning was preached by Rev. E. C. Murray, of Graham.

Much business of importance will likely be transacted by the Presbytery tomorrow. The new plan of gathering finances will receive especial consideration at this meeting.

The financial reports from the different churches of the Presbytery will show that more funds have been contributed for the various departments of the work of the church this year than has ever been contributed in one year before.

This evening the ministers and laymen in attendance at the Presbytery attended the concert of the Damrosch orchestra as guests of the members of Durham congregation.

The program for tomorrow will include the devotional exercises, after which the business meeting will be resumed. At 10:30 the Rev. S. S. Rankin, superintendent of the Presbytery's home mission, will make his annual report. This will be followed by several brief addresses on this subject. Thursday afternoon there will be the regular business session. Thursday night Rev. Dr. Chester, of Nashville, Tenn., secretary of the foreign mission board will make an address in connection with the presbytery's report on foreign missions for the year, which will be presented by Dr. Leyburn, pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

CANNON

Uncle Joe Announces Unalterable Opposition to Reciprocity ---Attacks Taft.

By Publishers' Press.

Washington, April 19.—In a speech in the House today ex-Speaker Jos. G. Cannon made a vigorous attack on the proposed reciprocity measure. He declared it violates the constitution and that the end sought should have been brought about through a treaty. In the course of his speech he severely critized President Taft for his position with reference to the measure.

FINE RECORDS ARE MADE BY NATIONAL GUARD AT RALEIGH

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, April 19.—All shooting on the 200 yards range and a large part of that on the three hundred yards range was completed today in the competitive meet of Third regiment teams, North Carolina National Guard.

The shooting will be completed tomorrow in such order as will admit of those teams having to travel furtherest getting off on the afternoon trains for home.

Rain interrupted the shooting this afternoon and if it should rain tomorrow so shooting cannot be completed, there will be a special order for another day of the meet.

Quite a number of the men scored today as high as 42 and 43 out of a possible 50.

MADERO DEMANDS SURRENDER OF TOWN OF JUAREZ

By Publishers' Press.

El Paso, Texas, April 19.—A formal demand was made tonight by Madero on Gen. Navarero, commander of the federal forces at Juarez, for the surrender of the city. The federal leader is given 24 hours in which to comply. If he refuses a general assault will be made upon the city. The demand was sent through United States Consul Edwards at Juarez.

Believed Insurgents Will Make Effort to Capture Juarez.

By Publishers' Press.

Washington, April 19.—The opinion is expressed here that the Mexican insurgents, having demonstrated their military prowress at Agua Preita, will make a supreme effort to take Juarez, the gateway to the whole province of Mexico. The war department officials do not understand how the Mexican diplomatic assurances can prevent a repetition of the Agua Prieta affair when the battle at Juarez begins, unless both federal and rebels agree to retire from the frontier out of cannon shot range of El Paso and fight it out. This the officials consider most unlikely and the indications are that instead of effecting an armistice the federals and insurrectos are rushing at each other as closely as they can get to the American border. The American colony in Mexico City is much alarmed by the recent developments, according to a dispatch received tonight from Ambassador Wilson to the State Department. Steps have been taken, however, to allay their anxiety. The committee on Foreign Affairs in the House has decided to take no action in the Mexican matter for a while.

Federals May Attack Rebels.

By Publishers' Press.

Agua Prieta, April 19.—A detachment of 278 federals, including forty cavalry, left Agua Prieta late today. It is believed that the troops were under orders to attack the insurrectos under Juan Cabrals, who is reported to be heading a band south of Naso with the intention of attacking that town.

ELECTION

Of President by People Favored by Roosevelt---Is Not a Candidate.

By Publishers' Press.

New York, April 19.—In an interview printed tomorrow ex-President Roosevelt says he is not a candidate for the presidency. "My friends will do me a cruel injustice if they seek to make me such." he says. He declares himself in favor of the direct election of the President and direct election of the delegates to the national convention.

NINETEEN MILLION OF S. A. L. BONDS WILL BE OFFERED

By Publishers' Press.

New York, April 19.—In the near future there will be offered at public auction $19,000,000 of the Seaboard Air Line Railway's four per cent. refunding mortgage bonds. The bonds, which are the first of the $125,000,000 issue created at the time the company was reorganized, will be offered at 83 1-2 and interest.

ADDITIONAL INDICTMENTS IN CARNEGIE TRUST COMPANY CASE

By Publishers' Press.

New York, April 19.—The grand jury engaged in investigating the Carnegie Trust Company failure will return additional indictments against William J. Cummings and Jos. B. Reichmann tomorrow. The indictments of Cummings are five in number and charge larcenies amounting to $300,000. The two Reichmann indictments charge him with aiding and abetting Cummings.

New York, April 19.—Check kiting by those financial flyers, William J. Cummins and Joseph B. Reichmann, managers of the defunct Carnegie Trust Company, was the subject of the special grand jury's investigations yesterday.

According to the witnesses examined Ditsirtct-Attorney Whitman confined his efforts to upturning further evidence upon which to bring new indictments against the two men who are now out on bail.

The total amount involved is about $100,000, and upon the methods employed in juggling this sum indictments charging grand larceny are expected.

It appears that the string of kites stretched from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Records have been brought out showing that banks in Seattle, Washington, California, Idaho, Tennessee, Ohio, Illinois, New Jersey, and New York were included in the field of operation, and so cleverly placed was the paper that sometimes as much as three weeks were gained before payment fell due.

R. L. Smith, vice president of the Carnegie, and several of the trust company's clerks were among those called before the grand jury. Others will be heard on the same lines today.

Mr. Whitman is devoting his attention to taking up the loose threads of the case as it stands against Cummins and Reichmann and others of the directors of the Carnegie before he again takes up the absorbing question of the friendship that existed between Cummins and City Chamberlain Charles H. Hyde.

SIX HUNDRED ARE EXPECTED

Delegates to Baraca-Philathea Coming in Large Numbers---Homes Wanted for Members.

About six hundred delegates to the first separate North Carolina State Convention of the Baracas and Philatheas are expected in Greensboro on the afternoon of next Saturday, and the big, broad Greensboro spirit of hospitality is to be extended to this band of active, energetic Christian workers.

Owing to the unusually large number of delegates who are coming it is necessary to promptly secure homes for at least two hundred more and the people of the city are urged to communicate at once with Miss Araminta Hester, 'phone 1369, or Miss Myrtie Ham, 'phone 92, or W. L. Carter, 'phone 680, and indicate the number of delegates they will take care of from Saturday noon until Monday night.

Greensboro should be, and is, especially proud to have been selected as the first convention place of this noble body, which represents probably the most active element in the religious work of today and whose motto is "Young People at Work for Young People." They really work for each other, and there are more than fifty classes of them in this city and about six hundred classes in the State, and every class alive and active.

Their coming will be a great thing for Greensboro. They have received letters of welcome from Mayor Stafford, the Chamber of Commerce, the Merchants' Association and others, and every courtesy is to be shown them while here.

Greensboro's reputation as a Convention City of the first class still stands unchallenged and all citizens are urged to take an active part in caring for and entertaining these visitors, who will begin arriving Saturday morning.

The Baraca and Philathea unions are nondenominational. The classes flourish in most of the Protestant denominations

JOHNSON GETS ONE DOLLAR FOR EVERY PITCH

Washington, D. C., April 19.—Assuming that Walter Johnson's new contract calls for $7,000 per year, and that he is expected to pitch forty games in return for this compensation, it was worth exactly $1 to him Saturday for every time he hurled the ball at a batsman or tossed it to a base. For each game he pitches he is entitled to wages on a scale of $175 per working day. And in his opening appearance he pitched 170 balls to batsmen, threw out three runners at first base, and tossed to Henry a couple of times to hold men on the bag. These latter bits of effort were really throwing money away, as they only served to lessen Walter's average earnings per peg of sphere, without accomplishing anything.

It is probable that this is the only nine-inning game that Johnson will pitch this season in which his rate of pay will not be more than $1 for each swing of his mighty arm. Not that the club is going to boost the figures again. But the number of balls pitched by Johnson was something abnormal, it very rarely happening that a pitcher has to serve the ball more than 140 times in a game, with the average probably somewhere in the vicinity of 125 pitches.

Town of Nazas Captured.

By Publishers' Press.

Torreon, Mexico, April 19.—Nazas, Caohuila, was captured by the rebels Monday. A special from Assatlan says that mail advices received from Tamazula, state of Durango, state that in a battle between the rebel forces under the command of William Collins, an American, and a national commander, 69 rebels, including Collins, were killed and 150 wounded. The batle raged for two days.

ASSOCIATION OF MERCHANTS

In Campaign for More Members—Will Seek an Adjustment of Freight Rates to Greensboro.

The Greensboro Merchants' Association, under the leadership of President John J. Phoenix and the other officers of the organization, has started an active campaign to increase the membership and to infuse new life into the association. The campaign to increase the membership is to be followed up immediately with active work for the improvement of business conditions here. The organization will address its efforts especially to securing lower freight rates for Greensboro. An adjustment of freight rates on the basis enjoyed by other cities, it is believed will greatly stimulate the business of this place and add largely to the wholesale trade and industrial development of Greensboro.

The objects of the Merchants' Association in the present movement are set forth in a letter which is being placed in the hands of merchants, both wholesale and retail, and the manufactures of the city. This letter is as follows:

Greensboro Merchants' Association Membership Campaign.

This association has inaugurated an aggressive campaign to increase its membership. The ideas outlined in literature being distributed is to invite every retail merchant, wholesale merchant, jobber, manufacturer or capitalist in the city to become a member.

It is hoped that each one invited will give their support to this association, as the time is now ripe to push our city and her industries. With the coming of the projected Interurban this city should grow rapidly. Our business associations are doing their best to exploit our advantages and should receive the support of every man interested in the continued advancement of Greensboro. With sufficient funds the work of these associations may be pushed energetically and to the advantage of every one.

The time is rapidly approaching when we may expect to have more favorable freight rates in and out of Greensboro and it is with this object in view that the Merchants' Association desires to get to work and do its part.

The recent decision to put lower rates into effect May 15th to Winston and Durham makes it imperative that we take prompt steps to place our case before the proper authorities, and secure for Greensboro as favorable rates as any other point in North Carolina. Then when this first concession is granted we can hope to soon have Virginia cities rates. This would mean an investment of $2,000,000 in the jobbing business within 2 years and is worth working for.

Let every one interested in the future of Greensboro and Guilford county help now while the opportunity offers.

HER PIED PIPER IS AN ORGAN'S MONKEY.

Four-Year-Old Mamie Follows That Enticing Animal Four Miles Away from Home.

New York, April 19.—An organ grinder's monkey with a hypnotic eye caused Mamie Boljack, four years old, of No. 22 East Twenty-first street, Bayonne, N. J., to get "losted" yesterday afternoon.

The organ grinder and his leading lady appeared at the gates of the Bayonne public school just before 1 o'clock. Hundreds of children were filing into the yard and the animal's antics won their attention. Lessons, however, drew away all but Mamie. She stood and gazed at the monkey. She could not think of anything but that fascinating creature.

The musician made a tour of the town. Behind him always was Mamie. They walked for hours, and it was dark when the organ grinder decided to cease artistic labors for the day.

While Mamie's attention was atracted elsewhere he and the monkey departed rapidly. Mamie, sitting on a stoop, looked around for the luring animal. He was gone and she cried, for she could not recognize a face nor a building. She had walked four miles to Jersey City. A patrolman took her to a police station. Her mother and father claimed her there.

The Telegram is entered at the Postoffice in Greensboro, North Carolina, for transmission through the mails as Second Class Matter.

EXPLANATION AND CONGRATULATION.

Doubtless all the readers of The Telegram duly noted the fact that this paper was issued yesterday in seven column form. It is true the paper was delivered late to city subscribers and some of the mails were missed, but this fact was due to the installation of new machinery, which had to be started to running and adjusted. This explanation is due The Telegram's subscribers, as the paper has not been issued on time for several days during the past week or so. The delays have resulted from the difficulties under which a newspaper is always issued when changes are made in the mechanical department and when new machinery is installed. However, we believe the worst of these difficulties have been passed, and that our patrons will have no grounds for complaint about the time of delivery of the paper in the future.

With this explanation to The Telegram's subscribers we wish, also, to congratulate the paper's friends and ourselves because of the improvements which we have been able to make. We know these improvements are acceptable to our subscribers and are appreciated by them, for many have already so informed us. The improvements afford the management of The Telegram satisfaction for the reason that it is our desire to give the people the very best paper possible to publish under the circumstances.

As has been stated before, the matter of reorganizing a newspaper office and of installing a new plant and of revolutionizing a newspaper business in all its departments is one which cannot be completed in a week or month. This is practically what the new owners of this paper are engaged in doing. When all the mechanical improvements contemplated have been accomplished we will have a plant practically new throughout; and when the business has been reorganized on the basis on which the new management expects to conduct it, it will be practically a new business. The public will readily understand that what the new owners of The Telegram are proposing to do is a work which requires time and much effort and the expenditure of a great deal of money. Therefore, we congratulate the public and ourselves that we have been able to proceed with it as rapidly as has been the case, while the progress made has probably not been what some have expected who have never stopped to consider the magnitude of the undertaking.

In the future The Telegram will be issued in seven columns to the page form, and the number of pages will be regulated by the volume of business of the paper. The advertising columns will not be allowed to unduly encroach upon the news columns, and liberal space will always be devoted to the publishing of the news. The local news service will be improved, as it is the intention of the management to make this the best service given by any paper published in this city or county. The Telegram now has a fairly satisfactory telegraph news service, but this will be enlarged and this feature of the paper brought up to a high standard. Special features will not be overlooked and will be added from time to time.

On the whole, we propose to give the people of Greensboro and Guilford county a satisfactory Democratic morning paper. We trust that all the friends who have stood by the paper in the past will remain its friends and that we may deserve and ultimately win the friendship and the patronage of many others.

Life is just one thing after another. As soon as the coca cola case was closed the Lorimer case was re-opened.

The Republican party has developed into a rare bird. It has as many wings as the Democratic party, and both of the old parties have developed so many wings that they are freaks.

If Ambassador Hill retired under fire it was probably for the purpose of returning to a country where one can live on a little less than $30,000 per year and maintain his self respect at the same time.

It is said that several of the political "lame ducks" will be found on the Chautauqua circuit this season. The public will regret to hear this, as it was thought the "lame ducks" had been finally disposed of and safely landed in innocuous desuetude.

It is said that many of the people of Mexico are dissatisfied with the Diaz regime because of its great length. The people of Mexico ought to read up on the history of Chicago and learn something about the long suffering patience with which the people of that city have lived under the regime of the Harrison family.

In order to become operative the income tax amendment must be ratified by seven more States. There is a possible eleven out of which to secure the number necessary to carry the ratification of the amendment. The Florida House has voted overwhelmingly in favor of the amendment and it is believed it will be ratified in that State.

The peach crop has been badly damaged or entirely killed, depending upon the point of view, but the blackberry crop is believed to be safe.

Four thousand Georgia boys are going to raise corn this year; and next autumn about that same number of men are going to be found busily employed in manufacturing fluid extract of corn.

Atlanta Journal says it believes Spring has come to stay. We were thinking the same thing here Sunday and Monday, but have since found out that it was a mistake.

President Taft wants to place the responsibinity for the relation of the United States to the Mexican situation off on Congress, but Congress does not appear to be especially hilarious because of the prospect of having the Mexican situation on its hands.

If this country really desires to settle the disturbances in Mexico all that is necessary is to give Texas permission to sail in. Texas "settled" Mexico a number of years ago the first time and could perform the work with dispatch again.

"Where is the old fashioned game they called croquet?" inquires the Atlanta Journal. If the Journal man will break away from the allurements of city life long enough to make a tour of exploration among the peaceful country folks residing on the great plantations within the corporate limits of Charlotte, he will find many people there still engaging in the delightful game of croquet.

WHO OWNS THE NEWSPAPERS?

In a speech delivered some time ago William J. Bryan asserted that some of the largest newspapers of the country were owned or controlled by interests inimical to the public welfare. Mr. Bryan stated that some of these newspapers were either owned outright or controlled by the "criminal corporations." He further stated that it was impossible to learn who owned the stock of some of the newspapers referred to. Mr. Bryan did not name any newspapers, but no doubt could do so if he believed it necessary.

The New York World criticised Mr. Bryan's statements about newspaper ownership and challenged him to call names and prove his assertions. The Richmond Times-Dispatch has echoed the World's bluff—because the World was bluffing when it endeavored to make the public believe that Mr. Bryan's statements were without foundation and that there is nothing hidden or rotten in ragard to the ownership of all the big newspapers of the country. There may be no question about the ownership of the World or the Richmond Times-Dispatch, and many other papers which could be mentioned, but that there are dark secrets of ownership and control in certain newspaper offices of the country is well known to men who are informed in regard to this matter. Even in the South there are newspapers known to the public as being either owned outright or controlled indirectly by the interests referred to by Bryan.

It is a notable fact, also, that newspapers about the ownership and control of which there is no question were not offended by Mr. Bryan's utterances. We have heard no charges against the World and Times-Dispatch, but their violent resentment of Bryan's charges appears suspicious. Their action may not be due to the influences of the wrong sort of ownership, but it may result from affiliations or influences which lead them to resent criticism by Mr. Bryan of their friends.

It is seldom necessary for the "criminal interests" to own newspapers outright. In fact it destroys the entire effectiveness of the plan if this fact of ownership becomes generally known. It is much better to control newspapers than to own them, allowing the nominal ownership to be vested in parties who do not belong to the classes referred to by Bryan.

There is no great number of newspapers, perhaps, about the ownership of which there is any doubt or suspicion, but there are some scattered throughout the country. This is a fact which should be well known to the newspapers, as it is quite well known to the public in several instances.

WHAT NORTH CAROLINA EDITORS ARE SAYING.

Tone of Record Has Improved.

A renewal of the old-time exchange courtesies of the Congressional Record with Webster's Weekly is a pleasing reminder that Maj. Charles M. Stedman has joined its staff. We find the tone of our esteemed contemporary decidedly more Democratic than formerly—Webster's Weekly.

Gambling Will Kill Baseball.

If baseball enthusiasts want to see the sport die speedily let them encourage the framing of books on the big league results which is now being attempted in New York City. The experience of turf men is recent enough to preclude the slightest doubt of what will happen if gambling in this shape once obtains a foothold on the diamond. —Charlotte Observer.

Warning to the "Tigers."

The recorder in Durham yesterday gave "blind tigers" long sentences on the roads and heavy fines. That is the only way to break them up. Every paper ought to enforce for its city this principle laid down by the Hendersonville Herald:

"'Blind tigers' may as well understand here and now that their nefarious business will not be tolerated in this enlightened, Christian community." —Raleigh News and Observer.

Communications

City Restaurant and Lodging Rooms.

One day this week a healthy, robust stout man landed in this city, in search of employment. It seems he had been forced out of work involuntarily, which sad plight found him penniless and rather than run the risk which attends beating a ride on the train, he walked a distance of fifty miles.

He evidently was a stranger here, and having no money he offered to sell his undershirt for twenty-five cents to buy bread. After securing a cheap temporary job, some kind-hearted person gave him ten cents to buy some tools.

The question naturally arises, how will he live until pay-day? He must have food, clothing and shelter to enable him to work.

This is only one instance of the poor fellows who are down and out. Numerous cases similar to this are passing in front of us every week.

They become desperate as the pangs of hunger sting, and from this flatsam and jetsam class of people comes the recruits for chain-gangs, prisons and houses of prostitution.

These are periolous times and none fail to observe it as such. No ordinary worker has an assurance of his position in the competitive labor market, and the largest per cent of the present day workers are unskilled.

The homes of the unskilled as well as the skilled mechanic are constantly decreasing, while 60 per cent of the entire population of the United States is forced to change residences every year.

Greensboro is not isolate, she will have to contend with her share of this unsettled humanity, and she takes remarkable pride in helping those who are in distress at all times. Every train that arrives here brings some one who needs help, and immediate help at that. They usually find here the accustomed greeting:

"Move on or thirty days."

As human beings, not fashionable beings, that does not allay the thirst or appease the hunger of any unfortunate. A term on the county roads for some enforced criminal act, perhaps theft of food, does not arouse the patriotic pride in the victim of unavoidable circumstances, besides this there is sometimes a mother's heart crushed by the cruel sentence. The womanly heart that beats beneath the faded calico is broken and the merry laughter of the prattling baby must be known as the voice of the convict's child.

Hard times are getting harder according to the world's best scientists. Alfred Russell Wallace says that we are only entering into the first stages of want and starvation.

We must meet the situation bravely. Club, guns, billies or bayonets will not still the rising tempest. It can be solved by cool, calm judgment only. And to grapple with the whole question is not wise. One detail at a time must be considered and among the first is the hungry man, the perishing woman and the starving child.

Municipal lunch rooms and lodgings operated at cost, seems to be one among the best ways to help relieve the concussion of the coming crisis. Would be pleased to hear from others relative to municipal establishments.

Saved His Mother's Life.

"Four doctors had given me up," writes Mrs. Laura Gaines, of Avoca, La., "and my children and all my friends were looking for me to die, when my son insisted that I use Electric Bitters. I did so, and they have done me a world of good. I will always praise them." Electric Bitters is a priceless blessing to women troubled with fainting and dizzy spells, backache, headache, weakness, debility, constipation or kidney disorders. Use them and gain new health, strength and vigor. They're guaranteed to satisfy or money refunded. Only 50c. at Fariss-Klutz Drug Co.

DON'T STAY TOO LONG

(By ALVA ARMSTRONG.)

When a man finds that he is in love, it is only human nature that he should want to enjoy as much of the society of the girl who has won his heart as possible. But here, as in most other things, the exercise of tact and discretion is necessary, and the more so if he is not yet formally engaged.

In particular he should not call too often at her home without invitation, and when he is there he should be careful not to stay too late. Very likely the girl herself will not mind very much, however long he remains, but she is not the only one to be considered, though this is a point which the average young man in love finds it difficult to realize.

There are the girl's parents and brothers and sisters, and they do not, as does the young man, consider that the world should revolve around one particular member of the family. Love has often been called blind, but the blindness is mainly manifested with regard to the adored one's surroundings rather than herself.

The man in love will note every mood of a girl—the girl—while he will quite overlook the moods of, say, her father. He will stay on and on because she smiles at him, oblivious of the fact that her father is scowling.

I believe that many of the minor obstacles that hamper the course of true love are created by the suitor's indifference to the remaining members of the girl's family. He is apt to take it for granted that they must be as glad to see him as the girl is, and by coming too often and staying too late it is more than possible that he may come to be regarded as a bore.

It will not help his progress with the girl if her people begin to make disparaging remarks about him. She will either come to agree with them—and then good-bye to his hopes of winnig her—or she may cause friction at home by the heat with which she sticks up for him, and thus causes her family to take a real dislike to him. He may say that he does not mind if they do, but if this is his attitude he is remarkably foolish, and may look out for many a pin prick that could have been avoided.

Of the two faults, calling too often, and staying too late, alas! they often go together, the latter is perhaps the most likely to be resented. The young man who would have the way of courtship as smooth as possible should bear in mind that the girl he loves is but one member of her family.

He Was in the Game All Right.

While walking along the street one day a gentleman noticed a group of boys apparently playing a game of some description. Much interested, he stopped, and inquired in a kindly tone:

"Well, boys, what are you at today?"

A bright youngster loked up and said:

"Why, don't you know, sir? This is the latest game out!"

"Oh! What do you call it?"

"Automobile, sir."

"Automobile! Why, how do you play it?"

"Well, you see, sir, I'm the driver."

"Yes."

"And this here fellow," pointing to his neighbor, "he's the horn; and this fellow is the hamper, and those two boys over there are the passengers—" And so on, he described the duties of the happy youngsters.

With a kindly salution the gentleman passed on. About 10 paces away, sitting on the curb, he saw a little chap with a very forlorn countenance, so he stopped and said:

"Well, my little man, why don't you join in the game with those other boys?"

"Please, sir' I am in it," he wailed.

"You are in it! Why, what are you?"

"I'm the smell!"

A Spring Suggestion by a Trained Druggist.

Appendicitis and many other ills come from Constipation and over-loading with food which the system cannot care for. The bowels must be cleared and antisepticised to give their normal functions and this should not be done by strong Cathartics, as every physician will tell you. Vick's Little Liver Pills have been the bowels and mild stimulation to the lazy liver and thus cure trouble in adults or children.

Little Annie had been put to bed, but was not quiet. Her father stepped to the door, and told her to be still. "I don't like you," came in subdued tones from under the bedclothes.

"What did you say, Annie?"

"I like you, but I do not like your wicked actions," was the quick reply.

Kicked By a Mad Horse

Samuel Birch, of Bestown, Wis., had a most narrow escape from losing his leg, as no doctor could heal the frightful sore that developed, but at last Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured it completely. Its the greatest healer of ulcers, burns, boils, eczema, scalds, cuts, corns, coldsores, bruises and piles on earth. Try it. 25c. at Fariss-Klutz Drug Co.

Elizabeth was sewing. She saw me making a buttonhole and wanted to make one, but I thought it a little hard for her; she said, "Why, mamma, that isn't hard; you just make eye-winkers all tround that hole."

Talk to Mothers.

There is need in the home for cuts, bruises, sores and sprains, children and others are heirs to a real good antiseptic liniment, one which will not burn and hurt worse than the wound itself, and which will give the greatest relief and prevent scars. Vick's Liniment is prepared for this purpose. Take this suggestion from a trained druggist who knows.

Fred, aged 3, had been a naughty boy, and his mother punished him. He left very much hurt and complained to his auntie about mamma's spanking him. Auntie said, "It is not you that mamma spanks, but a little devil inside of you who makes you do naughty things."

After sitting very still for five minutes, he said, "It beats all, how it hurts me when that devil gets spanked."

One Conductor Helped Back to Work.

Mr. Wilford Adams is his name, and he writes: "I was confined to my bed with chronic rheumatism and used two bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy with good effect. The third bottle put me on my feet and I resumed work as conductor on the Lexington, Ky., Street Railway. It will do all you claim in cases of rheumatism." It clears the blood of uric acid. Howard Gardner.

Completing the Information.

Marshall P. Wilder tells of the sad case of a Chicago man, member of a large furniture concern, who not long ago had occasion to visit New York on a matter of business for the firm.

Whether the Chicago man had too good a time immediately after his arrival in the metropolis does not appear, so on no reason, other than that of mere forgetfulness, is assigned to account for the fact that he could not for the life of him remember the name of the firm with which he wished to consult in New York. After putting in a whole day in vainly striving to recollect this most important detail, he at last decided to wire his partner for the necessary information.

In an hour or two the answer came: "You are to see Blank and Dash. Your name is Hopkins."

Foley Kidney Pills contain in concentrated form ingredients of established therapeutic value for the relief and cure of all kidney and bladder ailments. Foley Kidney Pills are antiseptic, tonic and restorative. Refuse substitues. Howard Gardner.

DELICATE CHILDREN

Made Strong and Healthy by Vinol.

"I wish I could induce every mother who has a delicate, sickly child, to try your delicious cod liver and iron tonic, Vinol.

"It restored our little daughter to health and strength after everything else had failed. It tastes so good she loved to take it—not a bit of cod liver oil taste.—Mrs. C. W. Stump, Canton, Ohio." (We guarantee this testimonial to be genuine.)

The reason Vinol is so successful in building up puny, delicate, ailing children is because it is a combination of the two most world-famed tonics,—the medicinal body building elements of cod liver oil, aided by the blood-making and strength-creating properties of tonic iron. It contains no oil, and children love to take it and it canont harm the most delicate child.

If we can induce you to try a bottle of Vinol as a body-builder and strength creator for your child, and you do not find it is all we claim, we will return your money on demand. Fariss-Klutz Drug Co., Greensboro, N. C.

Little 4-year-old Ollie Jean, on seeing some chickens flying over a fence, told her uncle he would have to clip their wings.

"Well," her uncle replied, "I won't only cut their wings, but their heads, too."

"Hump! you won't get any eggs then," said Ollie.

"Heads don't have anything to do with eggs," said her uncle.

"Yes, they do, too; they have to cackle," Ollie Jean replied positively.

RESTORES PLEASING PLUMPNESS

Samose Sold Under Howard Gardner's "No Cure No Pay" Plan.

There are a good many people in Greensboro who ardently wish they could find some way of getting fat and plump. While not ill, yet they are so thin and scrawny that their friends think they cannot be well. In nine cases out of ten this condition can be readily overcome by using the combination of flesh-forming foods known as Samose. This little tablet taken three times a day with the food does wonders in building up good health and restoring the pleasing plumpness that is so desirable.

Howard Gardner has the agency for this preparation and sells it with the promise that if it does not do all that is claimed for it in making people gain in weight and in health, the money will be refunded.

You certainly can afford to try a 50c. box on this plan, as Samose will cost you nothing unless it gives satisfaction.

The Eeasiest Way.

A steam heating plant had been installed in the house of the new president of a small conservative college. The president, startled by a break in the steam pipes, went in search of the college janitor. Being unfamiliar with his new surroundings, he entered the library.

"Dr. So-and-So," he inquired, his breath coming in gasps, "how can I find the janitor?"

"Well," the librarian replied in a slow drawl. "I find the surest way is to send him a postal card."—From "Success Magazine."

In Praise of Eloquence.

An Alabama negro was defended in court by Senator Morgan. Having cleared the negro of the charge, the Senator said to him, "Rastus, did you really steal the mule?

"Well, Marse Morgan, it was just like this," said 'Rastus: "I really thought I did steal dat mule, but after what you said to the jury I was convinced I didn't!"—From "Success Magazine."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

A BUSY TIME ON ARBOR DAY

Persis Bradford and Lucia Brown were going home from the postoffice. Their way was through Lisle avenue.

"How lovely it will be when the leaves are out!" said Persis, looking up into the tall, bare elms. "I wish Hamilton street had some trees on it; it would be ten times prettier."

"Yes, it would," agreed Lucia. "I'd like to live on Lisle avenue, wouldn't you?"

"Oh, I shouldn't want to leave our house!" replied Persis loyally. "But I wish there were some trees in front, a great, tall elm like this or some big maples like those down by Mr. Morton's. Oh, my, I'm going to ask father if he won't plant some! Wouldn't that be lovely? You ask your father too. Oh, I know!" And Persis' eyes grew bright with the great, beautiful thought that popped into her head.

It was a full week afterward that Mr. Simeon Ross on the way to his office one morning was accosted by two little girls.

"YOU MAY PUT ME DOWN FOR THREE."

"Good morning, Mr. Ross!" said Persis politely. "Don't you like Lisle avenue?"

"Why, yes, Lisle avenue's all right," he responded, a smile of surprise and amusement puckering his mouth.

"Well, don't you think it is prettier than this street?" put in Lucia.

Mr. Ross laughed outright.

"I guess Hamilton street will do for me," he answered. "What are you up to? Got some land over on Lisle avenue that you want to sell me?"

"No, sir," replied Persis. "It's trees. We want some trees all up and down same as there are on Lisle avenue, and father said he'd set some out in front of our house, and he sent for a catalogue, and we've been reading it and picking out the kind of trees we want, and Lucia's father's going to have some, too, and we didn't know but you would. We're going to ask everybody on the street," she ended breathlessly.

"Well, well!" exclaimed the listener. "Seems to me you're pretty little to go into the tree business. What is your name?"

"Persis Bradford, sir."

"Oh, so you are Clinton Bradford's little girl, aren't you? And your father's going to have some trees, is he?"

"Yes, sir. We're going to have a Norway maple and a silver maple and, I think, some elms."

"Well, you may put me down for three," said Mr. Ross.

"Three what, sir? Some of them cost a great deal more than others. We're going to have the ones that are $1.50, and then if we get ten trees they'll let us have them for $1.25. If we could send for a hundred they'd be only $1, but I'm afraid we can't get as many orders as that."

"So you are going to let your customers have the benefit of the discount, are you? Most folks want to keep that for themselves."

For a minute Persis looked a little puzzled. "Do you mean I'd sell them to you for more than I paid the catalogue folks? Oh, of course I wouldn't do that!"

"All right," he returned. "I guess what your father selects will be the thing for me, and I hope you will be successful. Have you seen Judge Kennard yet? No? Well, you'd better catch him before he goes downtown and tell him I sent you. Tell him I've given you my order. He has a wide front there—plenty of room for trees. Don't you let him go till he gives you a good big order."

The children's faces were beaming as Mr. Ross bade them goodby.

"Isn't he a nice man?" cried Persis.

"Splendid!" said Lucia.

"Oh, I can most see the trees—all over!" and Persis waved her hands in her happy imagination of it all.

Not everybody was as generous a purchaser as Mr. Ross, but the majority of the Hamilton street people thought that a row of trees on each side would add to the beauty of their thoroughfare, and the list of names in the children's order book grew longer and longer.

On the morning of Arbor day Hamilton street was gay and busy. All up and down on each side were knots of people—fathers, mothers, grandfathers and grandmothers, aunts and uncles, mingled with excited boys and girls. And the shovels flew, and the slips of trees were set that in the years ahead were to give shade and pleasure to the thousands who passed under them.

"Oh," exclaimed Persis Bradford delightedly, "I believe it is going to be even prettier than Lisle avenue! I am almost sure it will!"—Youth's Companion.

Get Busy!

Don't sit around the shack and moan
About your cruel fate
Or say that you are sorrow's own,
By her made desolate.
There isn't any question that
Around mischances lurk,
But call your courage to the bat
And buckle down to work.

Perhaps if you could view things right
Around you lying thick
Are many chances where you might
Make good in double quick.
Brace up, your best attention lend,
And neither shift nor shirk.
You have the means; look for the end
And buckle down to work.

Do not load up on useless care
And say your chance is small,
But, rather, both your shoulders square
And answer labor's call.
Don't let yourself surrounded be
With dismal doubt and murk,
But shake yourself from worry free
And buckle down to work.

By CLARISSA MACKIE.

Paul Hunting ducked his head from the fierce onslaught of the November gale and ran quickly up the wide stone steps that led to the old fashioned house where he had his bachelor apartment. Once within the warm red lighted hall its genial atmosphere seemed to infold him like a crimson mantle. He was mounting the red carpeted stairs with lingering backward glances into the hall below when one of the tall mahogany doors opened from the parlor and a head was thrust forth and then hastily withdrawn as the owner's eyes met Paul's startled glance of admiration.

The door closed softly and there was nothing for Paul to remember save a vision in pale blue, with a crown of golden hair and a pair of the most heavenly blue eyes he had ever seen.

As he fitted a key into his own door he wondered who the girl might be. There were two other bachelor apartments besides his own, while the Masons, who owned the house, occupied the entire lower part. Perhaps the girl was some relative of that elderly couple, but he had never dreamed of associating the rather dried and mummified Masons with such a bright, beautiful creature.

He had snapped on the electric lights and was standing before his mantelpiece as his thoughts found utterance.

"She is the loveliest creature I have ever seen," he said slowly.

The little Chinese mandarin on the mantel suddenly nodded approval in the most uncanny fashion. Paul stared for an instant, and then he realized that there was a heavy vehicle rumbling past and that all the odds and ends of bric-a-brac on the shelf were tinkling and rattling in unison.

"So you think so, too, old man?" laughed Paul as he shook off his overcoat and tossed his hat after it on the wide couch. The mandarin continued nodding in the wisest manner while Paul drew a comfortable chair to the grate, stirred the coals into a red glow and thrust his feet into a pair of gayly embroidered oriental slippers. "I don't suppose there's the slightest chance in the world that I'll ever have an opportunity of meeting her—the old mummy down there is so crabbed; always looks at me as if he thought I was coming to no good in the end. I don't know a more sober or a harder working chap than yours truly—do you, Wa Shing, or whatever your name is?" Paul eyed the mandarin quizzically as the head nodded violently in the affirmative.

"Drat that passing dray! So you do know a better fellow, eh? Well, out with it—who is he?" He leaned forward, spreading his brown, capable fingers to the hot coals and looked upward at the grotesque face on the shelf.

Then, to his unutterable astonishment, his question was answered in just the high, thin, reedy voice one might expect from a Chinese mandarin who sits on a shelf all day long.

"Why, Penlow is a most estimable young man, my dear. He's superintendent of a Sunday school and librarian of the Culture club and"—

"Penlow! Well, of all the mollycoddles!" Paul's disgust got the better of his astonishment at finding his mandarin endowed with speech. "If you admire Penlow's sort, why, I'll give you to him tomorrow! Poof!" He lighted a pipe and leaned back in his chair, drawing slowly through the stem while he surveyed the now violently agitated mandarin.

"Don't know your own mind; that's what's the matter with you, Wa Shing! Now you're saying 'Yes' and then the other thing. When the traffic ceases you'll settle down and go to sleep like the funny old beggar you are, eh?"

"I'm surprised, Paul," nodded the mandarin, his thin voice growing peevish—"I'm surprised at your taste. Hunting is a most respectable young man and pays his rent regularly, but so far as I know he doesn't attend any church. In fact, I know he lies abed Sunday mornings until a most disgraceful hour, while Penlow"—

"Rubbish, Paul! It's most indelicate to speak of Mr. Penlow in that manner. I shall take especial pains that you do not meet the young man you profess to admire. In my day"—

A phonograph in the room overhead suddenly blared into activity, and the mandarin's voice was drowned in the chaos of band music that followed, but he continued to nod wisely while Paul gazed back at him with a puzzled frown.

"Mighty queer, disconnected sort of conversation you hold, Wa Shing," he expostulated, reaching up for the ornament and holding it close to the light. "How do you manage that talkee-talkee business? Your head seems hollow, but of course that's no criterion that your vocal organs may not be in good working order. What is it they say about empty vessels making the most noise? I rather guess I've been asleep!" yawned Mr. Hunting, in conclusion, as he returned the mandarin to the shelf, where he continued to nod foolishly for several minutes. "Lost your power of speech, eh? Good for you!"

He leaned back with closed eyes and immediately forgot all about the mandarin and his strange conversation, which he firmly believed to be the result of a short nap. In his fancy Paul found an occupant for the other large chair beside his hearth. It would be somebody gowned in pale blue, with a fluff of golden hair and a pair of forgetmenot eyes. Where had he seen just such a face before?

Suddenly he leaned toward his desk and opened a drawer. He fumbled there for awhile, tossing aside papers and pictures with furious zeal until he brought forth a small photogravure of an ideal head. He propped it against the pedestal of the electrolier and studied it silently.

At last he drew a deep breath. "No wonder her face seemed familiar," he said in a low tone. "If she didn't pose for this picture I'm a sinner, and, fool that I am, I never tried to find out the artist! I was just satisfied to be in love with her without discovering her name. How in thunder can I get to know her? For I must even if I hold old Mason at the revolver's mouth and demand an introduction." He stared intently into the coals of fire, and for several moments there was dead silence in the room and without. Even the shrill complaining of the wind had ceased for awhile.

Then there came a piercing scream from the room underneath, a terrified cry for help, and there was the sound of running feet across a floor.

It was the work of an instant for Hunting to open his doors and reach the staircase. Afterward he remembered that his slippered feet only touched three stairs in descent. Then he pushed open the parlor door and met an appalling sight.

One of the long lace curtains at the windows was fiercely blazing, while the girl with the golden hair was trying to tear it down with the little desperate, shrinking hands.

As Hunting came through the door the blazing curtain fell to the carpet, and as the girl tried to stamp out the charring remnants her own soft voile gown ignited and the flames swept upward.

It was then that Paul Hunting snatched up a white fur rug from the floor and, throwing it around the girl, crushed out the flames before they reached her hands or face or even burned much of her gown. At last she lay in his arms, limp and white as the rug that enveloped her.

"I'm all right now, thank you," she said in a soft voice.

She released herself from Hunting's arms, and the white rug dropped to the floor, revealing the skirt of her pretty gown scorched and charred.

She held out a hand to her rescuer with a charming smile. "This gentleman has saved my life, Cousin Leander. Will you and Cousin Sarah add your thanks to mine"

"Bless me, child, it's Mr. Hunting from upstairs! I thought it was Penlow. Your hand, Mr. Hunting!" The mummy extended a dry brown paw, and Paul's strong fingers closed around it, while his head swam dizzily as the old man's voice rambled on in a monotonous speech of gratitude, for the voice of Mr. Leander Mason was like the voice of the mandarin, high and thin and piping in quality.

Cousin Sarah stopped screaming and gave another dry hand into Hunting's grasp and made a prim little speech.

Paul Hunting and the golden haired girl looked at each other across the width of the fireplace, and the forgetmenot blue eyes fell before his betraying glance. With a sudden impulse he told her the story of his little nap and the whimsical dream he had had of the nodding mandarin who had found speech.

When he had concluded she laughed merrily. "You were not asleep, after all, Mr. Hunting. Cousin Leander made a fire in the grate tonight to please me, and he opened some little ventilator in the chimney that must communicate with your room. We were talking, and you really heard Cousin Leander's voice."

"Was he talking to you?" demanded Paul suddenly.

"Yes," she said, with embarrassment. "Did you hear what we said?"

"I heard only one voice—his," explained Paul, with growing enlightenment. "Who is named Paul down here?"

"I am," said the girl in a small voice. "Pauline is my name, but they call me Paul. But now, Mr. Hunting, we are to drink to your bravery. Here come my cousins."

That night before he went to bed Mr. Hunting patted his mandarin lovingly on the back. "Good for you, Wa Shing," he said softly. "You made an opening wedge for conversation. She's the dearest girl in the world, and I'm going to win her. Wish me good luck, old fellow!"

As he replaced the mandarin on the shelf the foolish head nodded congratulations.

REDFERN

Demonstration
All This Week!

Correct Corsetting by a professional corsetierre, is the feature of our Corset Shop News. The professional comes from the chief designing rooms where the

Redfern Whalebone Models

are conceived, designed and executed. She will confer with you regarding the modeling of your figure to the season's requirements, and the merits of the REDFERN which, in our humble opinion, is not equaled in the Corset world.

The Change Corsetically this season is apparently slight, but it is most important. The length of the corset is unchanged, a trifle lower in the bust—the hip line and waist curve must be most exact—accuracy in shaping is due in a degree to proper adjusting.

THE REDFERN is a genuine Whalebone Corset. This is a good deal to say in these days when whalebone is high and scarce at that, and, what is more when substitutes are no rarity, the corset boned with a substitute claiming to be just as good as a pure whalebone corset, which is impossible, as whalebone is unequaled for its resiliency and shaping power—no substitute has ever taken its place.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

DON'T ask a man for a loan unless you are reasonably certain that you will never be in a position in which he can take advantage of it.

There are plenty of men who want the earth who are not up in geology at all.

Every wife likes to think that she could have any amount of money if she could just bring herself to ask her husband for it.

Compliments are sweets that do not always agree with the mental digestion.

There are many people who would rather be right than be president from purely practical reasons.

The reason it is hard to keep a good man down is because he isn't a good man while he is down.

Some men know enough to find good jobs and choose good bosses. They are known as exemplary family men.

Gardening seems to a man an idyllic occupation until seedtime arrives with its lazy weather.

A man may be short of brains and still in his own estimation bulk big where he wears his hat.

The Spendthrift.

"There are lots of money grubbers in the world."

"Of course."

"You speak as if it were a good thing to be a money grubber."

"Sure. Where would the money come from for you and me to spend if it wasn't for the same?"

Utility.

"He has the no breakfast fad."

"Too bad, isn't it?"

"Yes."

"How did he happen to go off his head so?"

"He is boarding on the European plan."

How Could It Be?

"His wife is a partner in his business, you said."

"I think so."

"Silent?"

"Silent! Isn't she a woman?"

Well Backed Up.

"How do you manage your husband?"

"Simply by kindness."

"Do you find that sufficient?"

"Yes, indeed, so long as I keep a rolling pin exposed where he can plainly see it."

Of Course.

"Are you fond of flowers, Mr. Oldun?"

"Passionately, Miss Steen."

"What is your favorite flower?"

"The flower of youth and beauty."

One Was Plenty.

She said that I must ask her pa.
I kicked on that because—well, say,
I knew the kick her father had
And didn't want it sent my way.
Her voice was trembling as she spoke.
Was it a snicker or a sob?
I said: "All right, you throw me down.
Your pa will not complete the job."

POLLY.

Those were the days, the days of yore,
The days of shields and lances,
When rivals smote each other sore
To win a maiden's glances!
Oh, then if she could not agree
Which lucky swain is was to be,
Each fellow took his chances.
She was not won by servile flattery,
But by assault and likewise battery.

And if the maid demurred, of course
You probably kidnapped her
And bore her off upon your horse,
And in your castle trapped her;
You did not let her plague and harry you—
You simply ordered her to marry you,
And then closed the chapter
By sitting up till twelve or later
To thrash her irritated pater!

But those delightful days are gone!
Today, if you would win her,
You e'en must tag around and fawn
At tea and dance and dinner.
And should you seek to emulate
Those ancient methods, let me state,
You are a legal sinner!
Your hero won a poet's praise,
But you would get some thirty days.

Turn back, O Time, a thousand years,
Until I capture Polly,
Or else my silly hopes and fears
Will bring on melancholy.
She listens to my prayers and smiles,
She's proof against my various wiles,—
To further plead were folly.
Unless I take to sword and fetter
I'm pretty sure I'll never get her.—Baltimore Sun.

Fastidious Palates

(By MRS. GEORGE BRANDT WINTHROP.)

I often receive letters from mothers of grown-up sons and daughters, and also from disheartened wives, who complain of the difficulty in pleasing the palates or tastes of those for whom they cater.

One mother wrote me some months ago telling me that she has so much trouble in the matter, and there is so large a quantity of good food actually wasted that were her time to come over again she would be more strict with her little ones, and she would train them to eat what was put before them. There are many cases like this, and all are the result of pandering to children's tastes and fancies regarding food.

They are allowed to pick over the contents of their dinner plate, with "I don't like this," or "I can't eat that," or "I don't want it."

If the child is ill or bilious the sight of much food is distasteful and even harmful, but in usual health no regard should be paid to such discontented remarks; or, if the child obstinately refuses to eat what is prepared, it should be removed entirely, and no other kind of food given until the next meal, when hunger will have taught the child a little lesson.

Too often the parents, for the sake of peace, given away, and sometimes more tempting food is given, with the result that the same scene is gone through day after day, until it is quite an understood thing to indulge the little "epicure's" fads and fancies.

The trouble, however, comes when the child has grown up, and perhaps has a struggle to make ends meet. He cannot, or will not, eat anything of an economical kind. Stews, hashes, or any made dish will not be tolerated. Nothing but roast joints, or grilled chops and steaks will suit him. Cold meat may be eaten once in a way, but only as a snack or for supper.

This must be exceedingly trying for the wife, when housekeeping allowance is not nearly sufficient for such extravagance, and as a natural result, debt, with all its accompanying horrors, very quickly catches them in its web from which it is almost impossible to escape.

I have seen a great deal of this, and cannot help thinking that such trouble could have been avoided if the parents had been more thrifty, and less indulgent.

The meeting of the G. F. College Alumnae Association occurs this afternoon at four o'clock in the assembly room of the public library building.

Clean-Up Campaign Closes.

The civic department of the Woman's club has decided to close the clean-up campaign, the workers having thoroughly covered the city. The children are requested to turn in what cards they have to Health Officer Simpson at once. The names of the prize winners will be published Saturday or Sunday. The contestants for the prizes worked so strenuously that it has been impossible for the trash wagons to call promptly for the trash. However, the officials have the name and address of each housekeeper who signed a card and the wagons will complete their work as early as possible.

DIX-DORTCH WEDDING EVENT OF GREAT SOCIAL INTEREST IN RALEIGH.

Raleigh, April 19.—This evening at 6:30 o'clock there was a wedding of special social interest in Christ Episcopal church, Miss Janet Dortch being the bride and Mr. George F. Dix, of Chicago, bridegroom. Bishop Robert Strange, of Wilmington, officiated. There were many visitors from New York, Pittsburg, Chicago and elsewhere and the church was thronged with relatives and interested friends.

The bride is a daughter of the late Col. Isaac Dortch and her grandfather was a member of the Confederate Congress. Mr. Dix is connected with the Carnegie Steel Works and is a nephew of General C. A. Woodruff, U. S. A., of this city.

BRILLIANT WEDDING OF MR. LEE AND MISS HARDIE

Last evening at 8:30 o'clock Holy Trinity church was the scene of one of the prettiest church weddings ever celebrated in the city, the ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Isabelle Marion Hardie and Walter Carlyle Lee. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Thos. G. Faulkner, rector of the church, in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends of the bride and groom.

The church had been elaborately decorated for the occasion. Special music was furnished by the vested choir of the church under the direction of Miss Alma Ashley, organist.

At the appointed hour the choir came down the aisle, heralding the entrance of the bridal party. Then came the ushers, Carter Dalton, Thos. S. Beall, R. W. Glenn and Jack Hardie. Next came the ring bearer, little Miss Louise Justice, the maid of honor, Miss Kate Hardie, sister of the bride, following. The groom, accompanied by his best man, Lawrence Williamson, of Fayetteville, came from the pastor's study as the bride came down the aisle, leaning on the arm of her eldest brother, Phillip Hardie, of Manchester, who gave her away. The bride and groom met in front of the chancel and the impressive ring ceremony of the Episcopal church was used in making them husband and wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee left at 10:31 on No. 12 for Old Point Comfort and other points. They will return to their future home in Greensboro in two weeks.

A number of out of town guests were here for the wedding.

The bride is a daughter of Col. and Mrs. Jo Hardie, of Brown Summit and is a charming and attractive young lady. She has hundreds of friends throughout the city and county. The groom is a prominent young man of this city and has many friends here. The large and handsome collection of bridal presents attest to their popularity.

Reception in Winston.

Miss Missie Sheppard, one of the city's April brides-to-be, and Miss Jessie Wharton, of Butte, Montana, who is the charming guest of Mrs. H. L. Riggins, were honorees yesterday at Mrs. Charles Summer's beautiful party.

A lovely fern dish was the first prize in the contest for skill in progressive dominos and this was won by Mrs. Meade H. Willis; a dainty handkerchief, as the second prize, fell to Miss Marguerite Brown, while Mrs. Kent Sheppard was given a pretty chatelaine as a consolation. The hostess also presented Miss Sheppard with a dainty pair of embroidered silk hose in a silk-lined basket; and to Miss Wharton a pretty hand-embroidered pin-cushion.—Winston Sentinel.

Miss Wharton is well-known in Greensboro having spent some time here, the guest of her cousin, Miss Margaret Wharton.

Miss Lillian Grey Fetter is spending the week with relatives in Reidsville.

Miss Kate McLean, of Sedalia, left yesterday for Washington, D. C., on a visit to relatives.

Unconventionalities.

"Great Caesar! Is that you, Glubbins? I haven't thought of you for seventeen years!"

"Some day, Mrs. Peters, I'll return your call. I want to see what kind of furniture you have."

"A front view picture of you, Miss Miriam, looks much better than a profile. It doesn't show the shape of your nose."

"Rivers, you ought to take a vacation; you're doing some awfully punk work on the paper these days."

"Must you go, Mr. Lingerlong? It's only 10 o'clock. I thought it was 12!"

"There's one good thing about your dinners, Mrs. Jipes—the table is always neatly set."

"I was telling Mr. Smidgin the other day, Mrs. Bumpley, that you'd want to borrow this book the first time you called."

"So glad to have met you, Mrs. Batterson—or is your name Bonser?"

Nature's Weapon.

"It was all off with the burglar when she awoke and found him in her room."

"Did she reach for a gun?"

"No, indeed."

"Scream for help?"

"No."

"Then what did she do?"

"Talked him to death."

Clever Real Estate Man.

"He talked a lot to me."

"Treated me worse than that."

"He did?"

"I should say he did. Took me right in."

"How was that?"

"Talked a house and lot to me."

His Greatness.

"He is a great talker."

"On what subject."

"Subject?"

"Yes."

"He doesn't have to have a subject. That's where his greatness lies."

Explained.

"A woman can't keep a secret."

"Of course not."

"But why can't she?"

"Because she knows that a secret isn't any good as long as it is kept."

Evidence.

"Is she rich?"

"Awfully."

"Why do you think so."

"Well, she keeps her husband on a salary."

Bad Case.

"Never argue with a fool."

"No?"

"No."

"But I hate to be still all the time."

A Bit of a Brush.

"Are his eyes black or blue?"

"Well, they were black enough when I left him last night, but I dare say they are blue this morning."

Personal.

"How are hogs this morning?"

"They are away down."

"Does it make you feel cheap?"

Journalists In Italy.

In Italy, says the London Chronicle, the journalist, with barely one or two exceptions, works for a salary which the pampered ones of England would laugh at. But he has his compensations. He—and not only himself, but his wife and family, too—travels free on all the railways, whether the journey is on business or not. If he wishes to go to the theater and to take his friends he has only to ask and the requisite box or stalls are at his disposal, and that however humble his professional rank may be.

Comforts of Home.

By a new process of photographic calico printing in Berlin it will be possible to have family portraits, landscapes and domestic scenes reproduced on sofa cushions, curtains and tablecloths at a reasonable price. The possibilities of this are depressing, but the innovation does not promise anything so alarming as the wax fruit, plush albums and cartoon crayon portraits of the postbellum period.—Philadelphia Ledger.

New York's Big Park.

"We expect to have 142 acres of land added to Central park before very long, or just as soon as the Jerome park reservoir is completed, and then it will be up to the landscape architect to make this the finest park in the country," said an officer of the park department. He explained that the 142 acres are used by the two reservoirs that were constructed in the park forty years ago. They will be no longer needed when the Jerome park reservoir, which was begun ten years ago, is finished. Judging from adjoining property, Central park is valued at $280,000 an acre. The reservoirs are occupying land worth $38,837,390. The ground there is 115 feet above the sea level and takes in one-sixth of the entire park.—New York Sun.

Bold Bachelors.

Wedlock seems to be in a bad way in the mountains of the Dauphine. The confirmed bachelors of the country have decided to meet every month and toast celibacy. Invitations are sent out with the information, "Good feeding, good drinking, much laughter, much dancing." An added insult to matrimony is that the invitations have been sent to all spinsters who have "put on St. Katherine's cap"—that is to say, who are over twenty-five and are therefore presumed to be on the high-road to old maidenhood. The confirmed bachelors announce their intention of eating, drinking, laughing and dancing with the old maids every month. But their very hardihood may be their undoing.—London Telegraph.

Feet Tired--- So Tired?

TIZ Makes Sick Feet Well No Matter What Ails Them.

TIZ acts at once and makes tired, aching, swollen feet remarkably fresh and sore proof.

It's the sure remedy, you know, for everything that gets the matter with your feet. It's for sore feet and for sweaty, bad-smelling feet, and for corns, callouses and bunions, too.

"For years I have been troubled with sore and tender feet; suffered intense pains. Have had the assistance of physicians without relief. I bought a box of TIZ, which worked a perfect cure, as it has with a great many of my friends. I would not be without it. All it requires is to be known to be universally used." A. F. Dreutzer, Chicago.

TIZ is not a powder. Powders and other foot remedies clog up the pores. TIZ draws out all poisonous exudations which bring on soreness of the feet, and is the only remedy that does. TIZ cleans out every pore and glorifies the feet—your feet.

You'll never limp again or draw up your face in pain, and you'll forget about your corns, bunions and callouses. You'll feel like a new person.

TIZ is for sale at all druggists, 25 cents per box, or it will be sent you direct, if you wish, from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Delicately Formed

and gently reared, women will find in all the seasons of their lives, as maidens, wives and mothers, that the one simple, wholesome laxative remedy, which acts gently and pleasantly and naturally and which may be taken at any time, when the system needs a laxative, with perfect safety and really beneficial effects, is Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna.

It has that true delicacy of flavor which is so refreshing to the taste, that warming and grateful toning to the stomach which responds so favorably to its action and the laxative effect which is so beneficial to the system when, occasionally, its gentle cleansing is required.

The genuine, always bearing the name of the California Fig Syrup Co., may be purchased from all leading druggists in original packages of one size only, price fifty cents per bottle.

HANDICAPPED

This is the Case With Many Greensboro People.

Too many Greensboro citizens are handicapped with a bad back. The unceasing pain causes constant misery, making work a burden and stooping or lifting an impossibility. The back aches at night, preventing refreshing rest and in the morning is stiff and lame. Plasters and liniments may give relief, but cannot reach the cause. To eliminate the pains and aches you must cure the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills help sick kidneys.

The following statement should convince every Greensboro reader of their efficiency.

F. C. Remfry, 512 S. Main St., High Point, N. C., says: "I was in such a miserable condition with kidney trouble that I did not believe there was any cure for me. My back and limbs were so sore that I could not get up after sitting without assistance and it was impossible for me to go about easily. The kidney secretions were also scanty and highly colored. I doctored and took medicine faithfully, but I did not improve. Finally I used Doan's Kidney Pills and the contents of three boxes made a permanent cure."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name — Doan's—and take no other.

Woman's World

Senator La Follette's Wife Investigates Servant Girls.

MRS. ROBERT M. LA FOLLETTE.

Mrs. Robert M. La Follette, wife of Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, is vice president of the Housekeepers' Alliance of Washington. This organization for the last two years has been conducting an investigation into domestic problems, and Mrs. La Follette has reached some definite conclusions as to how these problems can be best solved.

She says: "When housekeepers cooperate to elevate household standards, systematize housework and put it on a scientific basis vast good can be accomplished. The servant girl problem is a great economic question, caused by the complexity of our American life.

"The housekeeper who has learned the dignity of household labor has more sympathy with all those who perform it, and she can teach them the best methods based on science.

"In training young women for domestic labor and elevating it to a profession, thereby making it attractive and profitable to them, lies much of the solution of the problem.

"The American girl cannot bear to be looked down upon, and the American woman is at fault in allowing domestic labor to fall under the ban of social stigma."

Mrs. La Follette believes housekeepers should see to it that laundries, bakeries and other commercial concerns which do part of the work of the present day household should be held up to the highest standards of cleanliness and efficiency.

There must be plenty of sunshine, soap and rinsing with the family washing. Few of us know anything of the conditions in the laundry to which we send our clothes.

"We may want bread of the sort grandmother made," she says, "but we think little of the handling it gets in the bakery. As a concession to our ideas of cleanliness the baker may wrap it before he hands it in our door, but through how many pairs of grimy hands has it passed before the paper is put around it?

"Much of the housework of the future must be done by these commercial concerns outside of the family, and it behooves each of us to see that it is done as nearly as possible with the same cleanliness that it is done in our homes."

In Case of Fire.

"More women's lives have been lost in fires through their inability to use a fire escape or their almost hysterically mock modest fear of being carried down one by a fireman," says Chief A. J. Eley of the Los Angeles fire department.

"Women should be trained to know that when a fire is raging and escape nearly cut off it is no time to stand thinking of who may be looking on or who the fireman is. He is not a man; he is safety personified, and to him she is not a woman, just a human life to be rescued at all costs, at any peril."

Chief Eley believes that, with the tremendous growth of the city, its many tall buildings and the constantly increasing number of women employees, a knowledge of fire escape etiquette and athletics is absolutely essential. Observation of the following rules would make the firemen's task easier:

Pin up your dress between your knees so you will have perfect and unembarrassed freedom when descending the fire escape.

Carry scissors, and if you wear a hobble gown cut it so it won't impede your movements.

Face the steps in descending.

Don't look down.

Look forward or upward.

Keep both hands on fire escape railings and follow the old sailor maxim of never letting go with one hand till you have a firm grip with the other.

Kick off high heeled French slippers, which may catch and trip you.

Don't clutch at the fire escape or fight the fireman who is carrying you. He will not let you fall. Relax.

Don't let mock modesty stand in the way of your life.

Remember, a fireman and a woman lose all sense of personality in time of danger—you are merely a life to be saved, be the means to do it.

The Quiet Visit

(By CARA REESE.)

"We never had much to say to each other," said Erasmus Wilson the other day, when speaking of his friend, James Whitcomb Riley, "we just visited, quiet-like—no talking."

The gathering of women, laughed. Indeed there was suppressed giggling for quite a while after. The mental picture of the two friends sitting in the silence and profoundly enjoying one another and with no apparent bond but a joint plug of tobacco was irresistible. It was a new idea to many.

And yet it is said that only in the "silence" can souls really speak unhampered to each other and understand each other. Some idealists go further and pin their confidence to mysticism or the accomplishing of feats in trance-like attitude and the hypnotic state. There is probably a middle course of a helpful sort where ordinary mortals may practice the "silence" and derive some benefit.

There is a long leap from the "silence" of the occult to the noise and confusion of the ordinary friendly visit. There ought to be a happy medium for comfort. Some visits completely "play out" the visitor if not the host and hostess. It is nothing but talk, talk, and chatter, chatter, until the throat is parched and the brain paralyzed. In comparison, a visit, "just quiet-like, no talking," is a relife and wonder. There might be sensible adaptations made.

Of the "silence" of the occult, where souls come out of their shells and reveal themselves to one another, there should be no attempt at the practice unless the last will and testament be written beforehand or some arrangement for the future of practitioner be made. The occult has a habit of rising up and dealing a blow to those who wander within the realm or sit transfixed in the "silence" until such becomes a horror. Have nothing to do with this sort of "silence." Better that your sould be ever chained than let loose in unbridled, untrained power.

But the silence which may be comprehended by the ordinary mind, the calm, restful, tranquil silence, brings a blessed relief to the cares and the worries. Sympathy is felt the one soul for the other, although unspoken. A housewife writing to a domestic journal recently said something like this: "We are wearing ourselves out and marring our domestic peace merely trying to be entertaining to each other after the respective day's work is over. How may our scant hours of leisure be made to contribute to our real relaxation and happiness?"

The dear woman is probably waiting for an answer. There is more or less of an uneasy feeling or an undefined tension when two friends are together unless there be activity or chatting. It might be well to try the philosopher and the poet's plan, "just visit, quiet-like, no talking."

Freckle-Face

New Remedy That Removes Freckles or Costs Nothing.

Here's a chance, Miss Freckle-Face, to try a new remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable dealer that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles, while if it does give you a clear complexion, the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength, from Howard Gardner and one night's treatment will show you how easy it is to rid yourself forever of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask Howard Gardner for the double-strength othine, as this is the only prescription sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

A FACT PROVEN.

Should Convince Even the Most Skeptical of Its Truth.

If there is the slightest doubt in the minds of any that Dandruff germs do not exist, their belief is compelled by the fact that a rabbit innoculated with the germs became bald in six weeks' time

It must be apparent to any person therefore that the only prevention of baldness is the destruction of the germ—which act is successfully accomplished in one hundred per cent. of cases by the application of Newbro's Herpicide.

Dandruff is caused by the same germ which causes baldness and can be prevented with the same remedy—Newbro's Herpicide.

Accept no substitute. "Destroy the cause you remove the effect."

Righteous Indignation.

"So you want a divorce, do you?" said the lawyer, peering over his glasses at the worried little man in front of him.

"Yes, sir. I've stood just about all I can. My wife's turned suffragette and she is never at home."

"It's a pretty serious thing to break up a family, you know. Don't you think you had better try to make the best of it for awhile? Perhaps it is only a passing fad."

"That's what I have been doing, but there are some things a man can't stand. I don't mind the cooking and I haven't kicked on washing the dishes, but I do draw the line at running pink ribbons in my nightshirt to try to fool the children."—From "Success Magazine."

Dick In a Crowd.

When a certain mild-mannered Representative from a Middle Western State went to Congress, he left behind a body of constituents who fancied that great personal benefits would come to them through their powerful statesman. A farmer with political designs followed the great man to Washington.

"Well, Tom," a friend asked him on his return, "did you see Washington and Dick Blank, and did you get what you went after?"

"Yes, I seen Washington, and I seen Dick Blank," he replied, "but Dick couldn't do nuthin' for me. He was havin' a hard time to keep from gittin' tromped on hisself."—From "Success Magazine."

CRADDOCK SHOES Stand the Racket

Most shoes are pretty in the shoe window. Many are pretty on the foot and you like them enough to take them home. When the new is gone you begin to find things out about them that surprise you. That glamour of newness doesn't lengthen the life of a poorly made shoe. It does separate a good many men from their dollars.

We are offering you a different shoe proposition than has ever been offered in this city before—a $3.50 shoe that is worth $5.00 anywhere else, a shoe that without any question of doubt will wear thirty days longer than any other man's $3.50 shoe.

Craddock Terry Co., of Lynchburg, Va., the largest shoe manufacturers in the South, are behind the Craddock shoe. Their shoe is a revelation in style and comfort at the price. Look in our show windows. The looks of the shoes on display there are bound to convince you of the style quality of the Craddock Shoe. Pick out a shoe that appeals to you, come in and let us fit that shoe to your foot. Your toes will enjoy a new experience. Let us show you the Craddock Oxfords for Spring. Let us show you the Craddock kind of Oxford fit, no gaping around the ankles, no binding at the heel. Craddock Oxfords are the best ankle fits you have ever seen.

No matter what your taste is, we can please you. We have Craddock Shoes and Oxfords in every proven leather, calf, patent leather, gun metal, Russia and willow calf and kid. We have your particular size made on your particular last and the price is $3.50 instead of the $5.00 you will be asked to pay elsewhere.

We are showing a large variety of Craddock made shoes for ladies, in one, two and three strap sandals, pumps and sailor ties, in all leathers at $2.50, $3.00 and $3.50

SPIDER'S SILK

(By ROBERT SNOWDEN.)

Many birds, as well as men, make use of spiders' silk. Birds find it useful in building their nests. The humming bird, for instance, does so, generally utilizing the web from those queer little silken bags in which spiders fasten their eggs to fences and walls.

The fact is that silk is a non-conductor of electricity and in the countries which humming birds inhabit thunderstorms are remarkably frequent.

They are especially so during the nesting season, and eggs are exceedingly sensitive to the effects of electrical disturbances.

The whole exterior of the bird's nest is covered with the silken threads, and then she can sit firmly while a storm is in progress, the result being that her eggs are perfectly insulated.

It may be somewhat surprising to most readers to learn that by means of a properly constructed instrument one can wind off from an ordinary garden spider on a fair average about two miles of silken thread.

Not only that, but the supply is almost endlessly renewable. The demand for silk is enormous, and we breed silkworms by the thousand million in order to meet it. But why not breed spiders instead? They are independent of climate; we can catch them anywhere, and, instead of having to grow mulberry trees or lettuces to supply their fastidious requirements, we can feed them with superfluous flies.

Spiders' silk, however, is used by man to some extent, and in some cases is put to a very curious purpose. In the French colony on the Island of Madagascar the Catholic missionary stationed there saw the great possibilities in the industry, so he devoted his time to a study of the spider until at length he perfected an apparatus simple as it was ingenious.

He has named it the "guillotine." This guillotine is simply a sort of straight waistcoat, which holds the savage little creature, so firmly that it can neither bite nor wriggle until the glands have been denuded of their precious contents.

After the spiders have been robbed of their silk they are taken out of the guillotine carefully and placed on mango trees, where they recuperate with remarkable quickness. The withdrawal of the silk makes them hungry, and care must be taken to prevent them from attacking and eating each other.

Food For Repentance.

A well known Federal official was strolling down Philadelphia avenue one afternoon when he encountered a very small boy crying bitterly.

"What's the matter with that child?" demanded the official, somewhat peremptorily, of the woman who had him in charge. "Is he ill?"

"He ain't exactly ill," responded the unmoved woman, "but, between you and me, sir, no stomach ain't goin' to stand nine doughnuts!"—From "Success Magazine."

WHAT TO DO.

Helps and Suggestions For First Aid to the Injured.

If your rich uncle writes you on your birthday, wishing you many happy returns of the day and inclosing a check for $1 instead of for $100, as you had expected, take your typewriting machine in hand and make him an illuminated copy of that good old hymn, "Where are the ninety and nine?" and send it to him with your loving remembrance. It may loosen his cough.

If you are a landlady and you find your star boarder getting careless in the matter of his bills and paying no attention whatsoever to various and repeated statements of account, do not dun him in loud tones in the presence of your other boarders, but await a favorable opportunity to conceal his bill on the inside of an apple dumpling, using the same in lieu of the apple. The chances are that he will bite as soon as he gets hold of the dumpling.

If upon your arrival at the church to be married you are informed in the presence of the churchful of invited guests that the bride elect has just eloped with your best man, do not make a scene, but turn pleasantly toward the overflowing pews and, taking a strip of paper from your pocket, smilingly tear it to pieces and say, "Well, I shan't need that after all," and when the minister sympathizingly asks you if it was the ticket for your wedding tour shake your head vigorously and answer, "Oh, no; it was my ticket to Reno." When the runaway bride hears of this she will wish she had stayed and married you just for the pleasure of making your life miserable.

If you are living in an apartment house and in endeavoring to hit a cat on the back yard fence with a brick you unintentionally hit the janitor on the head do not give way to despair and fill the balance of the night with lamentations, but smile and be thankful that matters have so arranged themselves that even though unwittingly you have been the instrument of justice. Moreover, by keeping modestly quiet about the matter you may lead the janitor himself into the error of believing that it was done by somebody else.

If the old maid to whom you have proposed just for fun unexpectedly accepts you do not lose heart, but invite her to go to the opera with you, and instead of taking her in a taxi escort her there on foot, taking care to get your tickets in the last row of the top gallery. After the opera invite her to a little supper, ordering milk toast and ice water. When you call at night take a package of hard gumdrops with you, and on departing replace those that are left in your pocket with the remark that "we'd better save these for Sunday afternoon." A few weeks of this sort of thing will clear the way for a decided change of mind on her part, and you will be freed."—Horace Dodd Gastit in Harper's Weekly.

A Strategist.

A gentleman entered the postoffice in a small highland town and handed a packet for registered post across the counter.

"We can't take that; it's not sealed," said the young lady in charge snappishly.

"But I haven't any sealing wax," explained the gentleman. "Couldn't you seal it?"

"Certainly not," replied the girl. "It's not our business to seal packets for the general public."

"Ah, well," said the gentleman, "I'll just wire my friend that the packet won't reach him."

So he wrote his telegram and handed it to the girl. The message was, "Beautiful and charming girl in postoffice here will not take packet because not sealed."

The young lady promptly said she would seal the packet.—Tit-Bits.

A Faithful Son.

"Why on earth do you continue to smoke those vile smelling two cent cigars, Bilkins?" said Harkaway. "Surely you can afford to smoke a real Havana."

"True, Harkaway, perfectly true," returned Bilkins, with a sigh; "but, you see, when I was a boy I promised my mother that I wouldn't touch tobacco as long as I lived, old man, and I intend to keep that promise to the last."—Harper's Weekly.

By Publishers' Press.

Tacoma, Wash., April 19.—As a result of the heavy vote polled by women William W. Seymour was yesterday elected mayor of Tacoma, in the recall election of Mayor A. V. Faucett, winning by a majority of 856 votes. Faucett was ousted after serving eleven months of a four year term.

Still Destroyed Near Liberty; 60-Gallons Capacity

Deputy Marshal R. L. Blaylock and Revenue Officer B. F. Atkins returned yesterday from Liberty, near which place they destroyed a blockade distillery Tuesday night. A person was working at the still at the time, but his heels went up in the air as soon as he saw the revenuers and as he could run six feet to the officers' three he was soon out of sight.

The officers had received information that blockading was being done near Liberty and Tuesday afternoon Deputy Blaylock and Officer Atkins went down. The still was located on a small branch just across the Alamance line. Mr. Atkins was alone at the time and as soon as he saw the man the man saw him and the chase began. Deputy Blaylock was given the signal and he rushed to the scene. After a chase of about half a mile Officer Atkins lost sight of his man and returned to the still. He stated that he did not get close enough to the man to tell who he was.

The still was a copper affair with wooden sides and was of sixty gallon capacity. There were seven fermenters and about three hundred gallons of beer. The entire outfit was destroyed. The operator had begun his run during the morning and when the officers took charge a stream of singlings was issuing from the worm into the keg. It was evident that many gallons of "white lightning" had been made with the apparatus.

Village of Fez Pillaged.

By Publishers' Press.

Paris, France, April 19.—Dispatches from Tangier and Rabat state that rumors are current that the village of Fez was pillaged as a result of the uprising of the residents.

REGISTRATION FOR THE CITY ELECTION CLOSES APRIL 22

There are only three more days for registration and the voters of the city will no doubt keep the registrars busy during the remainder of the week. The various candidates are quite active in getting out as large a registration as possible. So far something over 1,200 names have been placed on the books as a result of their energy.

The primary will be pulled off next Monday, there being twelve candidates to come before the people. Judge Eure has no opposition for Judge of Municipal court. There are four candidates for Commissioner of Public Accounts and Finances, or Mayor; four for Commissioner of Public Safety and three for Commissioner of Public Works. After Monday there will be only two candidates for each office remaining in the race.

A Sumptuous Private Car.

Argentina has provided for its president, Dr. Jose F. Alcorta, one of the most elegant and sumptuous private cars in the western hemisphere. This car was built in Birmingham, England. It is seventy-eight feet long and is mounted on two six-wheeled trucks. It contains a handsome observation room, with a bay window effect at the end, and is furnished in mahogany and equipped with a marble fireplace. There are three bedrooms and baths en suit and servants' quarters. The exterior is of steel, painted a cream white with gold trimmings. The entrances are in the middle of the car, and the ends are rounded.

New Supreme Court Room.

Throughout the session of congress the supreme court has been crowded with auditors, and many hundreds of members of the bar have been crowded out. This revives the demand for plans to erect a new supreme court building or department of justice, where adequate quarters can be provided for the hearings of great causes before their final and definite settlement. There is talk of building a tribunal as a companion structure to the handsome library of congress.—Joe Mitchell Chapple in National Magazine.

Lake Taal's Volcano.

Mount Taal, the volcano in the Philippines whose eruptions caused a tidal wave that destroyed five towns and carried death to not less than 300 people, rises from the middle of Lake Taal, a body of water about fifteen miles in circumference and thirty-four miles from the city of Manila. Taal's height is 1,050 feet and its crater is 7,650 feet in diameter. Its last severe outbreak was in March, 1900, and it has overflowed many times, with great loss of life. The volcano is the second in importance in the island of Luzon.

Device to Disarm Submarines.

The French are experimenting with a new device for protecting warships against submarines when the former are stationary. It consists of groups of cylinders, about two inches in diameter, filled with high explosives and moored around the battleship, the cylinders being so connected with each other that when a submarine comes in contact with one or more of them it is entangled by the entire group, whose simultaneous detonation wrecks the submarine.—Springfield Republican.

GREENSBORO AND RALEIGH HIGH SCHOOLS PLAY BALL.

This afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at Cone Park the local High School team will line up against the team from the Raleigh High School. The two teams are about evenly matched and a hotly contested game is being looked for. This is the first time the two teams have gotten together this year and there is considerable interest in the result.

IF WOLGAST WINS HOGAN WILL QUIT

New York, April 19.—Mr. John Hogan, otherwise known as "One Round" Hogan, of California, announces that his battle with Adolph Wolgast, world's lightweight champion, may be the last of his career. Hogan and Wolgast are scheduled to box here on April 26. The California lad has seen the "Michigan wildcat" in action and he believes that he will have no difficultiy in beating the champion.

And he adds: "But if I can't beat Wolgast, I never want to fight again. I have a very good opionion of my own ability. I don't think I have a swelled head, I only believe that if I can't fight well enough to beat Wolgast I can never be a real champion. Therefore, if Wolgast beats me when I fight him I'm going to quit the game for good. That's all."

Fogarty Released by Winston Team.

Winston-Salem, April 19.—Tom Fogarty, who was a member of the Twins the past two seasons, was given his release today. Tom says that he came down here for that purpose, he and the local management not being able to reach an agreement through correspondence.

The "sweet singer" will remain here a day or two. While he has not decided definitely yet just what he will do, there is probability that he will go with Kelly, of the Anderson team.

Dubrieul, who came here for a tryout as third baseman, was also given the pink slip this morning and he departed today. Dubrieul was a very good player but he needs more experience for this class.

Mullins, one of the star outfielders with the Fayetteville team last year, telephoned to one of the players last night that he would arrive here Thursday to join the team.

Clancy, who is to play either third or short, arrived in the city last night. He is a healthy looking chap and the boys believe that he will make good.—Sentinel.

Primary Rules City Election

The Board of Aldermen met in called session yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock for the purpose of fixing the primary rules to govern the primary next Monday and the general election on May 2. The rules are the same as have been observed in the legalized primaries held in the city and require a certain space around the polls to be roped off, all the tickets to be in the hands of the judges of election and given to the voter as he advances alone to the polls. The names of all the candidates will appear in alphabetical order under the office for which they aspire and the voter makes his choice by putting a cross after the name of the candidate he prefers. A booth will be placed so the voter can isolate himself while checking his ticket. Only one voter will be allowed inside the booth at one time.

NANCY TRIED TO CARVE BILL.

Nancy Cuthrell, colored, made a desperate attempt to end the adventures of "Laughing Bill" Walker yesterday afternoon, diving at him with a formidable looking butcher knife. However, her foot slipped and the blow fell short of the mark. Fearing a repetition of the assault might prove fatal Walker lost no time in calling on Officer Causey and had the woman locked up. She will be given a hearing this morning.

PROCEEDINGS OF GUILFORD SUPERIOR COURT YESTERDAY

In Guilford Superior court yesterday morning in the case of J. N. Benton, admr., vs. the North Carolina Public Service Company a nonsuit was taken by the plaintiff. The defendant company moved to nonsuit on Tuesday afternoon and the argument for this motion was in progress when court adjourned for the day. When court convened yesterday morning the plaintiff agreed to the nonsuit.

The case of Walter H. McLean vs. the Provident Savings Life Assurance Company, of New York, was then taken up and the remainder of the day taken up in introducing the testimony of the plaintiff. Counsel for the defendant moved to nonsuit and this motion was being argued when court adjourned for the day. The suit is for the recovery of a premium of $15.88 paid on a policy for 17 years, amounting to $269.96. The plaintiff alleges that the policy was taken out with the understanding that the premium was not to be increased, but after 17 years it was increased to $19.99.

THOS. J. MURPHY, For Mayor

He Believes in Doing Things.

As some evidence of this assertion, during his term of office as Mayor from 1905 to 1907 two of the liveliest years in our history, the following important things were accomplished:

The construction of over twenty miles of sidewalks.
The paving of several miles of streets with brick, macadam and gravel.
The construction of the Reedy Fork pipe line and reservoir.
The building of Lithia street subway, and the authorization of Fulton street subway.
The carrying of a school bond election.
The extension of sewer and water mains.
And the repeal of the sewer tax that our people formerly had to pay.
As a Legislator in 1909 he advocated good roads and schools in State and County, as he had stood for good streets, water and school facilities in the city.

MAKE HIM MAYOR AND HE WILL GIVE ALL HIS TIME AND ENERGY TO THE CITY.

He favors a broad-guaged progressive government and is opposed to all unnecessary or picayunish ordinances.

He has organized and successfully managed the largest Building and Loan Association in the city.
